St. Lucia is part of the volcanic islands that make up the Lesser Antilles in the Caribbean Sea. Topside, the island is lush and green and considered one of the most scenic islands in the West Indies. Some of the greatest attractions are the beautiful Pitons, twin mountain peaks that rise vertically out of the sea; the sulphur springs, a unique drive in a volcano where open cauldrons of sulphur bubble, and the Louis XVI mineral baths known for their therapeutic value. Anse Chastanet is nestled in the middle of 400 acres on a breathtaking hillside with a fabulous view of the Pitons. Spectacular dives are located a short boat ride from the resort. The sheltered bay in front of the resort is home to a stunning reef ranging from 20 to 140 feet in depth. Finger, brain, flower and leaf coral line the area along with a variety of tube, barrel and vase sponges creating a bright mix of color and shelter for the many fish and crustaceans that inhabit the reef.
